University Extension Courses.

Several such courses are proposed in connection with the Library during the coming winter. Each course will consist of a dozen lectures, accompanied by collateral reading, and concluded by theses, for those who wish to prepare them. It will thus be adapted (1) for those who have time merely to attend the lectures, (2) for those who have time for more or less reading in connecting with them and (3) for those who have time and interest to pursue the subject in completeness as a study. There will be printed syllabi, with references to collateral reading. And the books referred to will be set aside in the Library for the especial convenience of those pursuing the courses; new books, or additional copies of standard books being purchased to meet their needs. The lectures will take place once a week, on Friday evenings, in the Meeting Room of the Library. To cover expenses a fee of two dollars will be charged for each course of ten or twelve lectures.

The following courses are proposed for the term beginning October 17th or 24th: (A) "Rise and Development of English Literature from the 6th Century to the reign of Henry VIII," conducted by Prof. Geo. E. McLean, of the State University; (B) "International Relations," conducted by Prof. W. W. Folwell, of the State University. Later in the winter: (C) Some second course in English Literature; and (D) Some period of English history, or (E) "The Nineteenth Century since the Congress of Vienna:" lecturers to be hereafter announced.

Course A needs no explanation. Course B will take up the theory of international rights and obligations, and the principles of international intercourse as developed by convention, etc. It will thus form a natural preface to the subsequent course on the "Nineteenth Century," which will necessarily involve the practical adjustment of international relations to their present status.

Before definite arrangements can be entered into for any of the courses, the Library Committee must know how many persons desire to pursue them. Applications will now be received for courses A and B above. Application blanks will be found at the Library, at the Bar Association Library, at C. D. Whittall's Bookstore, and at the High Schools (Central, North, Adams and Winthrop). No course will be undertaken for which there shall be less than 40 applicants.

The arrangements for the courses, and the purchase of books for the Library to be used in connection with them, require that applications should be filed at once. They may be sent by mail, to the Librarian.

Announcements.

FEBRUARY, 1891.—VOLUME I.

The Bulletins, Nos. 1 and 2, were originally issued for free distribution. The cost of printing these publications is, however, considerable, and a small price will have to be charged over in part this outlay.

Attention is again called to the new Finding List of Prose Fiction and Juveniles. It is the fullest catalogue of any department yet issued by this Library, and is for sale for 10 cents.

To the list of current magazines circulated there have been added Scribner's Magazine, the Atlantic and the Review of Reviews. The list now comprises, besides the above: The Century, Harper's Magazine, North American Review, The Forum, Popular Science Monthly, St. Nicholas and Wide Awake. The Eclectic Magazine has been dropped from the list. The periodicals are issued for three days. Back numbers as far as September last may also be obtained.

The department of Scandinavian literature has been transferred to the Franklin Avenue Branch, except that of works owned in duplicate, one set is still kept at the Central Library.

Books Added to the Library from November 1st, 1890, to January 31st, 1891.

ABBREVIATIONS.—N., New York; B., Boston; L., London; Ed., Edinburgh; P., Paris; Hist., History. Books starred (*) are reserved books. Books for the young are indicated by a B prefixed to the call number.
